Thermal And A Quarter popularly known as TAAQ in short to the impatient and the affectionate alike, is a path-breaking band from Bangalore who have redefined the meaning of independent music in India. TAAQ with its three albums and more than a hundred live shows and distinctive sound is inspirational and has led the way for a whole new generation of young musicians looking out for uniqueness in music. With Bruce Lee Mani on Guitars, Rajeev Rajagopal on drums & precessions and Rzhude on Vocals, TAAQ is the musical voice of modern India that speaks the language of the world.

TAAQ has earned the enviable reputation of being a pioneering Indian Rock band that has consistently defied categorization encompassing styles as diverse as Carnatic to Jazz-funk. They have acted as an inspiration for quite a few bands as far as writing, playing and recording original music is concerned.

On ArtistAloud.com Bruce from TAAQ says, “We know what it is to be online, what it is to have our music there, have it accessible to anyone in this world, anytime and anywhere without a middle man or a mediator. A portal like ArtistAloud.com is really important to musicians in the modern age because that’s the only way to get across to people in the fastest way possible.”

Seconding his band-mate Bruce, Rzudy is of the opinion that , “Today I think Artist Aloud is the way forward. We need more communities like this, we need people hear us on this site, downloading music, and actually making sense to the business side part of it as well.”

Thermal And A Quarter have been hand picked by ArtistAloud.com to join a group of passionate individuals showcasing music that is close to their heart.
